Table notes

The list shows 91 of the top Masters of Laws providers: schools are categorised by region and listed alphabetically by country. □

□□* The figures show the total number of full-time faculty working at the law school as of September 1, 2016. The numbers include all tenured and tenure-track professors, as well as full-time lecturers. They also include joint appointments with another department within the parent university, if any. The figures do not include visiting, temporary, adjunct or part-time faculty.

□□□□ The table shows the lowest total tuition fees (in local currency), for example, for local students. Please contact the school or visit its website to find out the tuition fees for international students. Please note fees may be subject to change. For some schools, part-time fees can be paid in instalments over the duration of the course
