

Main table with columns: Law school, Region, Principal country, Secondary countries, Full-time student enrolment, Language, Law degree or equivalent, Law degree or equivalent, Number of LLM programmes, Most popular LLM student, Most popular LLM student, Full-time minimum length, Full-time student enrolments, Full-time international students, Internships available, Full-time minimum tuition, Full-time start months, Part-time student enrolments, Part-time international students, Internships available, Part-time minimum tuition, Part-time start months, New LLM programmes 2016, LLM programme with business school, Website.

Table notes
The list shows 93 of the top Masters of Laws providers: schools are categorised by region and listed alphabetically by country.
The figures show the total number of full-time faculty working at the law school as of September 1, 2016.
The table shows the lowest total tuition fees (in local currency), for example, for local students.
If the school offers more than one LLM, this column shows the most popular LLM based on the number of enrolments for the 2015-16 academic year.
Depends on programme.
Tuition fee is 60 depending on nationality or avoided.
Students can enter directly into the second year only.
The minimum study length is 11 months and minimum tuition is €400.
The school has limited one of its LLMs in this listing.
Part-time LLM started in Sep 2016, so there is no data on this programme so far.
Y = Yes.
The numbers generally include students who started studying for their LLM in the 2015-16 academic year.
The numbers do not include continuing students.
Course start dates vary for each school and some have more than one start date in the year.
Partially online.
Mostly online.
Entirely online.
Note: This table was compiled from law schools that completed a Financial Times survey in 2016.